Echoes, Echos, Ecos, Echi

n°15

How could I avoid invading you, o reader, and make you want to continue beyond these first words? We would like to know how to do like Felix Fénéon who wrote his short news in three lines. I promise, we'll try.

Nine o'clock sound at the top of the rue d'Assas on Saturday, March 30th, and a few silhouettes, coming from Brazil, Colombia, Argentina, Spain, the French province and Paris even, reach the 118.

A coffee, a little pastry, cordial words exchanged and here they are at work to receive passeurs sneaking in, one by one, the analytic inner sanctum to deposit their message. Portuguese is translated into French and Spanish and gives this place the appearance of a tower of Babel where everyone, curiously ends up understanding each other. At the end of the day one of the cartels acquired a point of conviction: miracle of the nomination! (stakeholders will understand).

On Sunday 31, daylight saving time calls early in the morning Babel's tenants to resume their exchanges. The two cartels share their experience. Moment of rare intensity where years of analytical work, hours and hours of testimonies are condensed in a few lines. While not all candidates were nominated, all, passants and passeurs, contributed to the work of this nerve centre : let them be thanked for it.

A word to add that we still have left, as they say in French, "on the tip of our tongue". It is a matter of languages, and more precisely of translation. It is up to our small team to publish Wunsch and translate it into the five languages of our community. This is a considerable effort but it can be reduced if the authors make the translators want to convey the message. If in each proposed text there could be a little something to pass on...

To conclude, two announcements: On July 14th, 2019, in Paris, School day following the first European Convention. There is still time to propose papers. Taking the Bastille is one thing, taking the floor on this day is another. The theme, it should be remembered, is the school of cartels; two moments: the cartels of the pass and the cartels in the school. Deadline for receipt of proposals: 20 April. Hurry up!
