A very warm welcome to all!

The São Paulo Forum of the Lacanian Field is delighted to open its doors and host the XIIIth International Rendez-vous of the IF-SPFLF, "The Ethics of Psychoanalysis and the Others", and the IXth International Meeting of The School, "The Pass to the Analyst: Aporias of Testimony".

São Paulo awaits us. And we have been awaiting you.

The Rebouças Convention Center, a foundation of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of São Paulo, welcomes us. This meeting is the result of a long collective journey that began in May 2024, when the International Assembly chose both the theme and the host city.

Since then, an entire community has come together – with enthusiasm, rigor, and the desire that is uniquely ours – so that these days may be worthy of what psychoanalysis demands and offers.

Over the coming days, we will debate, listen, and allow ourselves to be surprised. That is what it is all about.

Take advantage of your stay to enjoy the city and its culture, and do not miss the opportunity to celebrate at the Party we have prepared.

Visit the Meeting's Bookshop, which has brought together seventeen publishing houses from different corners of our International of Forums.

Delight in the local flavors, among which the quintessentially Brazilian pão de queijo¹ holds a special place!

At the end of this Program, you will find the list of the bodies and committees that made this event possible – to them go our recognition and gratitude.

... São Paulo, a beautifully chaotic city, speaks through the voice of Adoniran Barbosa – São Paulo-born through and through, the samba poet of tenements and alleyways, who accompanies us in this opening:

Saudosa maloca, maloca querida

Dim, dim, donde nós passemos dias feliz de nossa vida²

SAUDOSA MALOCA (1951)

May you enjoy fruitful discussions!

THE BOARD OF SÃO PAULO FORUM OF THE LACANIAN FIELD

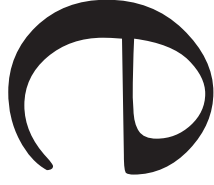

THE ORGANIZING COMMITTEE OF THE XIII INTERNATIONAL
RENDEZ-VOUS OF THE IF-SPFLF

² The lyrics of the song have been left in the original Portuguese to preserve the musicality and identity of Adoniran Barbosa's work. A possible translation is: "Dear old hut, beloved hut / Where we spent/ happy days of our life".

"¿What can emerge in someone's mind to authorize oneself to be an analyst?"

This is the question that Lacan posed to the passants willing to participate in the experience, whose procedure he invented in 1967.

Despite the interest of this experience, it must be acknowledged that the passants' testimonies are confronted with various aporias. One of these results from the fact that, in the analytic act, the analyst does not operate as a subject. Rather, he assumes "that crazy risk of becoming what that object a is". But this requires him to have identified the cause of his horror of knowing. "From there, he knows how to be a residue" says Lacan in 1973, in the Italian Note, adding: "If he does not feel carried away by enthusiasm, there may have been analysis, but no possibility of an analyst".

Psychoanalytic ethics, on the other hand, is the ethics that, whether recognized or not, guides the psychoanalytic act on a day-to-day basis in psychoanalysis, whenever there is psychoanalysis. It shares with the ethics of our time the characteristic of being optional; it is not for everyone, but requires a specific, new desire, the desire called by Lacan ... the desire of the analyst. No less unspeakable than any other, but a desire of exception whose concept remains to be clarified, because contrary to what vectors each individual desire, it is carried neither by the signifying chain of an "I", nor by the object it engages. Yet, it is this desire that causes the analyzing desire. Lacan speaks of this ethics of desire, which counters the imperatives of the loud voice of the superego, and whose path – "avenue," according to Lacan's term – follows that of the demand, and in Remarks on Daniel Lagache's Presentation, Lacan calls it an ethics "of silence"¹, an ethics "converted to silence" by the fact that desire, "incompatible with speech", is unspeakable.

LIPP ROUND TABLE – INTERNATIONAL LABORATORY ON THE POLITICS OF PSYCHOANALYSIS OF THE IF AND ITS SCHOOL

17:00h

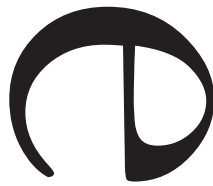

ETHICS AND POLITICS OF PSYCHOANALYSIS: THE EXPERIENCE IN THE LIPP

From January 2025 to the present, the LIPP has organised online debates based on topics gathered through consultations with the School community of the Federation of Forums and its different linguistic zones. In this round table, representatives of those zones bring their reflections on the experience to debate, in order to advance together in thinking about the politics of psychoanalysis — in both intension and extension —, its ethics, its clinic and its relation to other discourses from the standpoint of the analyst's discourse, in the face of the urgencies of our time and the conjuncture of our century.

Panel composition:

Antonio Quinet (Brazil), Devra Simiu (Anglophone Zone), Ester Mikowski (Brazil), Maria Koukoumaki (Plurilingual Zone), Mario Binasco (Italy), Mohamed Kadari (Francophone Zone), Nieves Gonzales (Spain), Stella Casanova (Latin America North).
In-person event with online streaming in Portuguese, Spanish and French.

SERIES: FALATÓRIO (CHATTER)

The diptych of the visual identity for the IF-EPFCL International Meeting is part of the Falatório series — a witty name, given that these paintings were created during the pandemic in the family dining area. “It contains all of our conversations!”. It is part of the research developed in painting and printmaking about how much words and letters can endure before becoming pure line.
